Gallup reports that 87% of employees around the world are not engaged in their work. Some employees feel as though they are just cogs in the wheel. How do we change that? Get them in an entrepreneurial mindset. Many studies find that entrepreneurs are the happiest, most engaged people in the world, finding purpose in their work, compelled by problems that they are driven to solve. By cultivating an entrepreneurial mindset, we can empower and engage more employees, changing that Gallup statistic.
